

Parental involvement improves student achievement.

The Rosetta Stone® Community Solution for K-12 enables schools and districts to empower parents, guardians, and staff to experience language learning just as students do. Our scalable online solution offers English, Spanish, and four additional world languages as an affordable, equitable learning option.

Student achievement is linked to parent participation at school and home. This solution enables parents to learn a language and participate in their child's academic program. Underserved non-English-speaking populations can develop additional English-specific language skills, increasing their engagement in the school and contributing to improved student achievement.

Extending language-learning access to school staff, including custodial and foodservice employees, provides a continuous learning opportunity, supports cultural diversity, and improves general communications within the school.
